Perkin-Elmer Corporation
Norwalk, Connecticut

Gentlemen:

Please refer to my letter to you of January 5, 1955, as amended by my letter of March 2, 1955, which authorized your organization to proceed with the development, manufacture and delivery of certain items of equipment as previously discussed between us and as tentatively described in the memorandum which accompanied such letter.

Inasmuch as it has not been feasible to conclude a definitive agreement to date and to replace the interim authorization with a definitive contract, and since such interim authorization expires on April 5, 1955, this letter will serve to extend the original authorization, as amended, for another thirty days, or to May 5, 1955. This letter does not increase the amount of the original authorization.

Very truly yours,
